THE prosecution at Frankfort realizes that the "conviction" of YOUTSEY is necessary to the vindication of JAMES ANDREW SCOTT.

Don't swallow all the "confessions" now being made at Frankfort. A corruption fund of $100,000 can procure any old sort of testimony. Just wait till you hear the other side of the story.

THE WAR Department at Washington has recognized General D. R. COLLIER as Adjutant General of Kentucky by honoring his requisition for two hundred new uniforms for the soldiers on duty at Frankfort.

The evidence that is to "hang TAYLOR and damn the Republican party" is so far found only in the sensational headlines of the Goebel papers. The statements of the witnesses—even so able a witness as Mr. CULTON—do not connect Governor TAYLOR in any way with the removal of Mr. GOEBEL.

EVEN the learned Sawbones have mended their hole. When GOEBEL was shot it was given out that the hole in his back was much larger than the hole in his back. This was conclusive proof that the ball entered the back and came out through the breast. But this did not fit the purposes of the prosecutors, so now the Doctors are swearing that both holes were of the same size!

COLONEL JOHN R. ALLEN of Lexington has been "frozen out" of the race for nomination for Congress from the Seventh District. In the first place, the Committee disbursed from the primary every Democrat who was opposed to GOEBEL last fall; and this was displeasing to Colonel ALLEN; and then it levied a tax of $1,000 on each man who submitted his name to the primary; and this was the straw that broke the combination. The race is now between the illustrious SOUTH TRIMBLE and the Devil.

WHAT a magnificent sure-enough Governor BECKHAM would be, when as a "pretender" only he "pardons" murderers without reading the papers in the case!

About two years ago JAMES C. GRAVES shot and killed CHARLES CASSIDY, brother of R. J. CASSIDY, Inspector for the State Board of Pharmacy.

The killing followed shortly after a dispute over some live stock, the farms of CASSIDY and GRAVES, near Versailles, adjoining.

Mr. CASSIDY said, speaking of the pardon of his brother's murderer—

"The evidence in the case was such as would have made it impossible for BECKHAM to have issued a pardon if he had taken the trouble to acquaint himself with the facts. At considerable trouble and expense I had a type-written statement of the facts, and had all the evidence prepared. This I took to BECKHAM at Frankfort, asking him to read it before he passed upon the petition, signed by 1,800 persons, for GRAVES's pardon."

BECKHAM, however, bothered himself about reading this book, but issued the pardon anyhow, and by so doing he showed that his methods are too lax for a man who wants to sit in the Governor's chair in Kentucky. He never paid the slightest attention to my requests to be present in the matter, but paid but the slighest of my brother, as he said, there were 1,800 signatures to the petition."

Sgt. Grant gave Nat Green and George Smith, who stole a few reapers, mowers, threshing machines, &c., as stated yesterday, $35 fine and 10 days in the "Cooler."

The entertainment given by the Department of Physical Culture at Haywood Hall on Sunday will commence promptly at 7:15. There will be a street car in waiting after the entertainment. Those who have not already secured their tickets can get them at the Drugstores of Mr. J. C. Peeler and Mr. J. J. Wood or at the door this evening.

At the Grand Council of the United Commercial Travelers of America, West Virginian, at Lexington, at Lyndhurst, Y. C. Friday and Saturday of last week, Mr. George F. Brown was reelected Grand Secretary at an increase of salary, and Mr. J. B. Russell made a member of the Auditing Committee for two years. The next meeting of the Grand Council will be held the third Friday and Saturday of May, 1901, at Richmond, Va.

The Avalon for Pomeroy and the Bonanza for Cincinnati are tonight's White Collar packets.

Cincinnati has a four-weeks real supply on hand, and unless a rise comes in the river pretty soon there'll be lots of idle men, as all the factories will have to shut down.

The big City of Pittsburgh is having lots of fun smashing up things while making landings. She ran into the steamer Falls City at the Louisville wharf Friday and came very near demolishing that pretty craft.

There is practically no change in the Pittsburgh rivers, with the exception of the water in the streams falling very slowly, and rivermen are hoping for rain. Old fresh water salts who have operated on the streams throughout for many years claim the water is not as bad as it was a week ago, and predict that the dry season this year will be a long one. In the Ohio river at Davis Island Dam there was 4.3 reported Sunday night, while in the Monongahela harbor the indicator was at 2.1 feet.

Science has found that rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood, and that it can be excreted in the kidneys. No rheumatism with healthy kidneys. Dr. J. Jas. Wood & Son and Armstrong & Co.

WHERE'S THE PROOF?

CULTON'S "CONFESSION."

Not Likely to "Hang Taylor and Damn the Republican Party."

Louisville Evening Post

CULTON ON THE WITNESS STAND.

The Evening Post published daily stenographic reports of the testimony of W. H. Culton. Culton is not making a confession; he has taken the stand to testify in his own behalf. The testimony is of interest as throwing light upon one of the mysteries of criminal history. It is there to speak for itself. It is interesting, not only what Culton says, but for what Culton positively refuses to testify to, even under the persuasive cross-examination of Mr. Campbell of Cincinnati and New York. The purpose of the cross-examination is manifest. Its failure is as manifest as its purpose.

The prosecution is seeking to "hang Taylor and damn the Republican Party." In this effort they have the assistance of The Courier-Journal, which daily prostitutes its columns to this work with a shamelessness that surpasses anything in its previous history. In its headlines it declares that Culton confesses himself an accessory. On the contrary, when Mr. Culton is asked if he had any connection in any way with the shooting or killing or murder of Mr. Goebel, he says, "I did not."

"Did you enter into any conspiracy; have any understanding or agreement with any of those parties named in the indictment, or with any other person?" "I did not."

"Did you counsel it or advise it or encourage it in any way?" "I did not."

"Did you know it was going to be done?" "There was not a man in Frankfort more shocked at the occurrence than I was; not a man more surprised."

The Courier-Journal's headlines say that his evidence "convicts Youtsey as a principal in the crime." Mr. Culton relates with great frankness various conversations he had with Mr. Youtsey, relating to facts that form a clew that might connect Mr. Youtsey with the crime. These conversations are characterized by a light-headedness on the part of Mr. Youtsey, by a curious sense of irresponsibility that will constitute a strange phenomena in psychology. But it is stretching the significance of this testimony far beyond any possible legal lines to say that it convicts Youtsey.

Furthermore, The Courier-Journal says that Mr. Culton designates James Howard as the assassin.

Mr. Culton's tales of meeting Howard in Frankfort after the assassination and expressing surprise at seeing him there. He relates a conversation with Howard which would indicate a knowledge on Howard's part of how the assassination was committed, but when Mr. Culton asked for further information, Howard said: "Do not say that Mr. Youtsey was in with Mr. Goebel after the shooting was done. This would indicate that Howard saw Goebel when he fell; it would indicate that he was not near enough to determine who it was with him or who Mr. Chinn was doing."

The facts that Mr. Culton testifies to are important when substantiated, but when substantiated they do not bear out any of the deductions made by The Courier-Journal in its headlines or in its alleged summary of the testimony or in its editorial reference thereto. There is nothing in this testimony that causes Taylor of "being an accessory before and also after the fact," as The Courier-Journal says. All that Mr. Culton states concerning Governor Taylor relates to the bringing of witnesses, armed and unarmed, to Frankfort. He states that prior to January 26th he conferred with Governor Taylor, and at his solicitation went to several mountainous counties to serve subpoenas upon witnesses to appear in Frankfort, and that for this work, estimating that it would cost $5 to bring a witness to Frankfort, he received $125.

He testifies further that after the examination Taylor expressed an opinion that Youtsey was a dangerous man to have any connection with. He adds that Taylor suggested it might be well to get Youtsey out of the state.

Today The Courier-Journal makes the following statement:

"Culton concluded his testimony this morning shortly after 10 o'clock, after having been on the stand for over five hours. He implicated Taylor further by telling of a conversation he had with him concerning Youtsey's presence in the state and the calling out of the Militia on the day Goebel was killed."

As a matter of fact, the testimony of Culton yesterday was as far from implicating Governor Taylor as it was on the first day. Indeed, it contradicts quite positively the statement that Governor Taylor was laboring to get Youtsey out of the state.

Culton tells not of a conference between himself, Taylor and Youtsey, but of Governor Taylor's emphatic repudiation to Youtsey of the statement Youtsey had made that Taylor had promised him money if he would leave the state. To make this clear, read the following report of the testimony of Culton on May 3d:

"I will explain about that," said Culton. "Youtsey told me Taylor had asked him to leave. Afterward I told Taylor what Youtsey said, and Taylor denounced it as false. I declined to go with Taylor to see Youtsey about it, but afterward Taylor came into the Auditor's office and asked Youtsey about it in my presence. Youtsey then said Taylor had not asked him to leave the state. I said: 'Youtsey, you told me Taylor had asked you to leave the state.'

"Youtsey said: 'I did; but it was not Taylor; it was some one else that asked me to leave.'

"He did not tell me who that other man was."

In the questions propounded by Mr. Campbell in the cross-examination we have much light thrown upon the sensational publications made in The Enquirer and in The Courier-Journal prior to the meeting of the Grand Jury, Mr. Campbell seeks to get Mr. Culton to testify that there was a plot to bring the mountaineers to Frankfort to kill a sufficient number of the legislators to give the Republicans control. This story was told at length time and again by The Enquirer and The Courier-Journal. It was to the effect that a row was to be raised in the Senate; that when the row was raised the Republicans were to keep their seats, and the Democrats, as they rose up, were to be shot down."

We have quoted this interrogatory from the stenographic report of Campbell's questions. It embodies the statements made heretofore in the organs of the conspiracy to assassinate character. Now we give the answer of Mr. Culton: "That was not discussed in my presence."

Q.—"Nothing of that nature?" A.—"No, sir."

Q.—"Nothing of the kind?" A.—"No, sir; it was not. No, sir, I am positive of that."

Thus under the searchlight of truth does one falsehood after the other disappear. Thus is the atmosphere cleared. The desperate efforts now to connect the bringing of witnesses to Frankfort with the assassination, and the desperate attempt to connect the presence of witnesses with the conspiracy to assassinate half of the members of the Senate seem to have no foundation in fact.

This is borne out by the formal declaration this morning in The Courier-Journal that "there will be no immunity for Culton unless he reveals damaging evidence he holds back." This comes after the bold assertion of Wednesday that Culton "convicts Youtsey," that he reveals Taylor of being an accessory before the fact and after the fact," and the assertion today that Culton yesterday "still further implicates Taylor."

If these were truths, there would remain nothing for Culton to tell; that The Courier-Journal knows its own assertions to be false. The Courier-Journal confesses when it threatens Culton and then tries to persuade him with promises; when it insists that he "has not told" all; when it refuses him immunity "unless he tells more."

In other words, Culton is ordered to secure immunity, must do what Youtsey, it is said, refused to do; tell a story which would "hang Taylor and damn the Republican party." And the witnesses refuse to do this, the degraded organs of the conspiracy to assassinate character, The Courier-Journal and Times, deliberately falsify their own reports; put in the mouths of witnesses the words of the cross-examiner, and then declare that all their fake stories and false confessions have been sustained, whereas every material assertion has been emphatically contradicted by Culton. It is a desperate game these organs of assassination of character are playing, and will play.

These efforts are born of criminal imagination. They are circulated throughout the state by criminal newspapers. They are seized upon by hearts burning with malice. They form a part of a deliberate plot to "hang Taylor." And yet they are absolutely destroyed. They are absolutely destroyed by the testimony which the enemies of society have asserted would sustain these contentions.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colds, Colds and Diseases Remedy," says Dr. A. W. Smith and Dr. J. D. Remond, of Louisville, who are well known in the medical profession, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show-case, said to me: "I really believe that medicine never had a better remedy for colds and diseases, and the name is so exhaustively over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it to my friends." Rev. Dr. W. H. Campbell, of Louisville, who is a man of great reputation, said to me: "I have no doubt that this is the best cold remedy I have ever seen."

"I will explain about that," said Culton. "Youtsey told me Taylor had asked him to leave. Afterward I told Taylor what Youtsey said, and Taylor denounced it as false. I declined to go with Taylor to see Youtsey about it, but afterward Taylor came into the Auditor's office and asked Youtsey about it in my presence.
